But clearly not all believers in Corinth spoke in tongues see 1 Cor. Not only will it help us move closer to them in the bond of unity, but it will also sharpen our thinking as we try to determine which, if any, of these views is the one taught in Scripture.

IamanOvercomerbecauseoftheMercyandLovingkindnessofGod.Fromthatday Others argue that the preposition eis does not mean that Spirit-baptism incorporates one into the body of Christ. Many, however, reject any conditions on which Spirit-baptism is suspended and do not believe all Spirit-baptized Christians necessarily speak in tongues. Churchesdivideoverit.The unfamiliarity of her experience was exceeded only by the joy and peace that it brought. Therefore, all Christians, by definition, have been baptized in the Holy Spirit.
